

OBSSESSED!

Our picks of the top seasonal trends—plus, how to nail the looks. Woot!

The Semi-Undercut

It's not a passing phase, ladies! The pros at Paris-based Franck de Roche salon say the undercut is still hot for spring. This one is extra short on one side with lots of length on the opposite, so when you tire of the trend, just switch your part and flip hair over to conceal the shorn half. Holla!

Hair by Christophe Adric for Franck de Roche. Photography: Tomas Lébr. Makeup & styling by Team Franck de Roche.

Pastel Nails

We're going gaga over the pretty pastel nails at the Rebecca Minkoff show featuring a trifecta of ombre hues. Brush on three sections. Use clear polish for the center and then try Deborah Lippmann Afternoon Delight in Peaches & Cream and Get Lucky as your bookends; $20 each, deborahlippmann.com.

Astrid Stawiarz/Getty Images for TRESemme.

Caramel Spice

The hottest seasonal color trend is Caramel Spice, according to the Franck de Roche salon team in Paris. The hue works best on warm skin tones (so bust out the bronzer)! Try Physicians Formula Bronze Booster Glow-Boosting Baked Bronzer; $14.95, physicians-formula.com.

Hair by Christophe Adric for Franck de Roche. Photography: Tomas Lébr. Makeup & styling by Team Franck de Roche.

Piecey Pixies

"Today's pixie is defined not as one particular type of cut, like the Mia Farrow Pixie haircut circa 1968, but instead symbolizes all short piecey haircut styles for this season," says hair guru Philip Pelusi. "They vary somewhat in shape but are generally shorter on the sides, longer on the top and all have a chic, purposely-styled, disheveled look. The short pixie trend is being worn by famous style setters like Scarlett Johansson."

Taylor Hill/Filmmagic.

Color-full Mascara

“Take ‘pop of color’ to a whole new level by adding color to your brows or lashes,” says Celebrity Makeup Artist Brandie Hopstein. “With so many great colorful mascaras out there, lashes are a breeze. I like Diorshow Mascara ($27.50, dior.com) and NYX Color Mascara ($7; nyxcosmetics.com). Tip: Be sure to use a primer like MAC Prep + Prime Lash ($17, maccosmetics.com) so your bold color moves stand out.

Ruffled Bob

A bob with well-placed waves and curls is one of tousled elegance, says Philip Pelusi. “No solid lines or pin-straight textures; this bob look has a lot of movement, flips and bends.” Use a weightless hydrating shampoo and conditioner (try P2 by Philip Pelusi Age de Phy Shampoo and Age de Phy Conditioner) and follow up with a light styler (like P2 ReCurl Smart Styling Treatment).

Hair by Fabien Provost for Franck Provost from Spring-Summer 2016 collection.
© Franck Provost 2016.

The Full Short

“With tantalizing volume at the top of the crown, playful texture in back, and natural color elements, this haircut is flattering for any woman looking for a new trend,” says Julien Farel, owner, Julien Farel salon, New York, NY. “It’s the perfect balance between classic chic and modern edge.”

Hair by Saint Algue from Summer 2016 Collection, ©Saint Algue SAF 2016.

Center Braid

“The spine braid is a good go-to when you want to do something without going ‘all out,’” says Michelle Surgent, owner of Pink Comb Studio in Westfield, NJ. “It requires a small section of hair down the center of the head to be French-braided. It’s great for those humid days (to tame frizz) or for covering up roots that need a touch up!”

Jean-marie Contreras.

